The Car is the Star

By Peter Pandolfi

Editor's Note: Welcome to the inaugural article of the Car is the Star. My intention is to provide information on the many iconic cars we see in TV shows and movies while giving you a nostalgic trip back to your youth. If you are too young to remember these, too bad. You won't understand any of it.

Get Smart is an American comedy television series parodying the secret agent genre that had become widely popular in the first half of the 1960s with the release of the James Bond films. It was created by Mel Brooks and Buck Henry, and had its television premiere on NBC on September 18, 1965. It starred Don Adams (who was also a director on the series) as agent Maxwell Smart (Agent 86), Barbara Feldon as Agent 99, and Edward Platt as The Chief. Henry said that they created the show at the request of Daniel Melnick to capitalize on James Bond and Inspector Clouseau, "the two biggest things in the entertainment world today". Brooks described it as "an insane combination of James Bond and Mel Brooks comedy".

The series centers on bumbling secret agent Maxwell Smart (Adams), also known as Agent 86, and his unnamed female partner, Agent 99 (Feldon). They work for CONTROL, a secret U.S. government counterintelligence agency based in Washington, D.C., fighting against KAOS, "the international organization of evil".

The President's Page by Randy Higgins

Many of you are night owls. Burning the midnight oil as the old saying goes. So am I. It started during my teenage years when I would stay awake until 3 or 4 in the morning building plastic model kits, mostly scratch built fire apparatus and trucks — many of which I still have fifty years later. The smell of Testor's paint and glue filled my parents home. When I close my eyes I can still smell it. I can still hear my mother in the next room laughing hysterically while watching Johnny Carson as my younger brother slept and my dad was at the firehouse. At midnight — right after The Benny Hill Show ended, everything changed. My 13" black and white Sears television that I had in my bedroom, complete with foil on the antenna, went quiet as the local television stations went off the air until the next morning. This is the same television that I was watching on August 16, 1977, when rock and roll lost its biggest star — Elvis Presley. A year later, 1978, we got cable TV installed which was a game changer! We could watch full length movies with no commercials on about 100 different channels. The first movie I watched was Animal House on HBO with John Belushi — a movie that I watch regularly to this day. Saturday nights at 9pm were special in my house as we all gathered around the television to watch Emergency! which aired from 1972 to 1977 and followed the heroics of two LA County paramedics, Johnny Gage and Roy DeSoto. After Emergency! I was always torn between watching Count Gore De Vol on Channel 20's Creature Feature or Saturday Night Live. I usually ended up flipping back-and-forth during the commercial breaks. Life for me as a teenager in the 70s was great — I only wish I had known it then. Things were much simpler and we were able to focus more on friends, family, and school in person, you know — face-to-face. We called each other on the phone and talked for hours. We rode our bikes everywhere with no helmets. We played in creeks, threw the football back and forth until the street lights came on, at which point we knew it was time to skedaddle home — or else. There were no distractions like today. No internet, cell phones, Facebook, Tik Tok, Door-Dash, Amazon, or email. If you took a photo you didn't see it instantly, unless you were rich enough to own a Polaroid camera. You would place the roll of exposed film in an envelope and drop it off at the local drug store. The worst part was waiting a week to get the photos back only to realize that the "great" photo you took had your thumb in it or was out of focus. Nowadays, with digital technology you can take as many photos as you want until you get it right — instantly. If you needed anything from the store, you got in the car and drove there. There was no sitting in your recliner and ordering everything

April Automotive Trivia Question

What car was reportedly designed on the back of a Northwest Airlines airsickness bag and released on April Fool's Day, 1970?

While Smart always succeeds in thwarting KAOS, his incompetent nature and insistence on doing things "by the book" invariably cause complications.

The Cars

Who can forget the iconic opening scene with Max driving around the corner and parking in front of CONTROL headquarters the passing through a series of doors to get into the office? The car that Smart is seen driving most frequently is a red 1965 Sunbeam

Max in his 1965 Sunbeam Tiger

Tiger two-seat roadster. This car had various custom features, such as a machine gun, smoke screen, radar tracking, and an ejection seat. The Sunbeam Alpine, upon which the Tiger was based, was used by customizer Gene Winfield because the Alpine's four-cylinder engine afforded more room under the hood than the V8 in the Tiger. AMT, Winfield's employer, made a model kit of the Tiger, complete with hidden weapons. It is the only kit of the Tiger, and has been reissued multiple times as a stock Tiger.

Max's 1967 Volkswagen Karmann-Ghia

In the black-and-white pilot episode only, Smart drives a 1961 Ferrari 250 GT PF Spider Cabriolet. In the opening credits, the Tiger was used for seasons one and two. In seasons three and four, Smart drives a light blue Volkswagen Karmann Ghia, because Volkswagen had become a sponsor of the show. The Volkswagen was never used in the body of the show. In season five (1969–1970), Buick became a show sponsor, so the Karmann-Ghia was replaced with a gold 1969 Opel GT, which also appears in the body of the show. In Get Smart, Again!, Smart is seen driving a red 1986 Alfa Romeo Spider Veloce.

Don Adams adjusting one of the car props

The Sunbeam Tiger, the Karmann-Ghia, and the Opel GT all make brief appearances in the 2008 film. The Sunbeam Tiger is seen in the CONTROL Museum, along with the original shoe phone, which Smart also briefly uses. The Opel GT is driven by Bernie Kopell and is rear-ended by a truck. Smart steals the Karmann-Ghia to continue his escape. Adams received the Sunbeam and drove it for 10 years after the end of the show. It was wrecked and repaired several times, and its current whereabouts are unknown.

Editor's Notes by Peter W. Pandolfi:

Your Hobby, Your Newsletter, Your Stories

I welcome any contribution members would like to submit. In this issue you will notice an article by a member on a car museum he visited. This is the kind of item I am looking for. Especially desired are articles on National meets and tours you might attend. Email is the best way to submit items, but if the files are large, burned to a CD/DVD or thumb drive is perfectly fine. I will even take them hardcopy if necessary. This method would be very labor intensive, but I will make it work. Submission deadline and contact information is below. Please use MS Word if at all possible. Thanks in advance for all your support.

Member News

Meeting Presentations: If you or anyone you know would like to give a presentation on an automotive experience, contact Randy Higgins. Presentations should be between 20-30 minutes in length.

Newsletter Articles: The Clutch Chatter is in need of articles from the membership, especially Car of the Month. Please make your submission to Pete by the 25th of the month. Include lots of pictures.

Upcoming Events: As we approach the beginning of car show season, let's get the word out about events in our area. As you learn of shows, swap meets, tours and other events desiring to display collector vehicles, please send me the information or better yet a flyer on these activities so I can publish them in the Clutch Chatter. One good source is the other car club organizations that you may belong to. All our members can benefit by participating in these events. Pete

New Bull Run Activities: Have you ever heard of an event hosted by other car clubs and thought, "Hey, that sounds like fun!"? If you have, then take the lead and organized the function for our Region. It doesn't have to be a big, involved affair. It could be a day tour or show and shine at some interesting location in our area. These activities can benefit the Region by boosting membership retention and providing a venue to advertise the club and possibly attract new members. If you have an idea, bring it up to any of the Region officers or present your idea at a monthly meeting.

Calling All Members: Last year we were excited that the Region gained several new members. But, we have yet to see any of the new members at any of the meetings or functions. You older members are not exempt from this either. We seem to get the same core of 15-18 members attending the meetings. It would be nice to see some of our other members attend. This is an opportunity to get to know us and for us to get to know you. The meetings are the forum to make your voices heard. Have some fun with the hobby and get involved. You will find it rewarding. Resolve to attend a meeting sometime in the next few months, we don't bite.

Meeting Minutes

by Pete Pandolfi, Secretary

The monthly meeting of the Bull Run Region was held on March 9, 2025 at the VFW Hall in Manassas at 4 pm. This meeting was a potluck dinner meeting. 18 members were in attendance.

1. Randy opened the meeting and invited everyone to dig into the array of delicious food brought in by the members. Once everyone had their fill, the meeting continued.
2. The Treasurer's Report was read and accepted
3. Randy told the members of a recent discovery of a 1958 accident. In Hood City, OR the Martin family went out for a drive and seemed to vanish. The assumption was they somehow drove into the Columbia River, but despite a search, nothing was found. A week or so later the bodies of the two children were found, but the bodies of the parents and the car could still not be located. This year, 2025, the car was finally located. It was overturned and covered in silt. Very few pieces of the car were still intact and there were no bodies to be found. After nearly 7 decades under water, this came as no surprise, but the mystery was solved.
4. Randy then turned to an update on the Rohr show for September. He distributed the first printing of the flyer for members to bring with them to other car related events. He said one concern was the show awards as far as number and type of awards to include awards for motorcycles. He appointed an awards committee led by Vice President John Price with Chief Judge Franklin Gage and Steve Dietz on the committee. Any other Bull Run members wishing to serve on the committee should contact John. Member input is welcome. The online registration is up and running and show advertisement is going out. Jon Battle is heading up the advertising, assisted by HMI and Crusin-For-Heroes.
5. Randy informed the group that the Region has been given a new opportunity to participate in the City of Manassas First Friday celebrations free of charge. Basically, the City hosts a party on the first Friday of each month from February to November. We would be able to set up a tent and display a couple of vehicles to advertise the car show and recruit members. The Region will work with Mark Olsen to determine which First Fridays we would attend.
6. Franklin Gage reported that the ODMA meet will be held on May 17 hosted by the Colonial Heights Region in the Richmond area. More information will follow. Also, the ODMA Fall Tour will occur around Veteran's Day but no definite plans have been made.

7. Old Business: Randy confirmed that the AACA National Convention will return to Chantilly, Virginia in February 2026. They will use the same hotel as they did in 2024. The Region will again be an active participant in the setup and execution of this event. As in 2024, National will be looking at us to supply some display vehicles and help with coordinating efforts necessary for the event.
8. Rob Morrow won the 50/50 raffle and donated his winnings back to the Region.
9. The meeting adjourned at 5:15 pm.

on a computer, although I do admit it is convenient. Sears and Montgomery Ward were big in my family and virtually everything we needed was bought there. When you needed auto parts, you'd typically go to Pep Boys, Sears, Western Auto, NAPA, Hi-Gear, Trak Auto, or the handful of independent parts houses and speed shops. One of my best memories was ordering parts from J.C. Whitney based on hand drawn images from their catalog. I actually bought a circa 1982 J.C. Whitney Catalog from an antique store recently. It was fun looking back at all of the silly stuff that we were putting on our cars back then. Lately, I find myself thinking more and more about my teenage years – I really miss them. I'm kicking around the idea of buying a DeLorean and reaching out to Doctor Emmett Brown in Hollywood to see if he can help me install a Flux Capacitor to get me back to 1976. Who wants to go with me?

Being a member of AACA is all about the past. Preserving our memories through our automobiles as we navigate modern life and beyond. There would be no future if not for the past. For me, every time I walk into my garage and see my '64 Bug and '67 fire truck I feel a wave of comfort – it's hard to explain, but I think you know what I mean. Nostalgia is what keeps us going. I'm sure reading this has made many of you reflect back on your teenage years and put a smile on your face as it did for me writing this.

As for the Bull Run Region, we had a great monthly "pot luck" meeting in March. You guys really stepped up your food game with pizza, fried chicken, chili, lasagna, and homemade casseroles. The food and fellowship was outstanding. During the meeting we had good dialogue about the upcoming Rohr Car Meet and a newly appointed awards committee, chaired by John Price, was tasked with revamping our awards system. In addition, Pete and Randy each received AACA National awards that were presented at the National Convention back in February. Neither of us was able to attend, so Franklin Gage was kind enough to bring them to the meeting for us. Pete received his sixth Master Editor Award for publishing our club newsletter, The Clutch Chatter. I received an award of distinction for the Bull Run Region website.

This is all I have for this month. I wish safe driving to all members as the weather gets nicer and the old jalopies come out of hibernation.

Randy

The Gadgets

The enemies, world-takeover plots, and gadgets seen in Get Smart were a parody of the James Bond film franchise. In Get Smart, telephones are concealed in over 50 objects, including a necktie, comb, watch,

Max's 1961 Ferrari 250 GT Spider Cabriolet

and a clock. A recurring gag is Max's shoe phone. To use or answer it, he has to take off his shoe. Several variations on the shoe phone were used. In "I Shot 86 Today" (season four), his shoe phone is disguised as a golf shoe, complete with cleats, developed by the attractive armorer Dr. Simon. Smart's shoes sometimes contain other devices housed in the heels: an explosive pellet, a smoke bomb, compressed air capsules that propelled the wearer off the ground, and a suicide pill (which Max believes is for the enemy). Agent 99 had her concealed telephones, as well. She had one in her makeup compact, and also one in her finger nail. To use this last device, she would pretend to bite her nail nervously, while actually talking on her "nail phone".

Max and the Chief look over a new feature

Gag phones also appear in other guises. Max tells Tanya, the KAOS informer whom he is protecting, that if anyone breaks in, to pick up the house phone, dial 1-1-7, and press the trigger on the handset, which converts it to a gun. Max once carried a gun-phone, a revolver with a rotary dial built into the cylinder. Other unusual locations include a garden hose, a car cigarette lighter, a bottle of perfume, the steering wheel of his car, a painting of Agent 99, the headboard of his bed, a cheese sandwich, lab test tubes, a Bunsen burner, a plant in a planter beside the real working phone, and inside another full-sized working phone.

Other gadgets include a bullet-proof invisible wall in Max's apartment that lowers from the ceiling, into which Max and others often walk; a camera hidden in a bowl of soup (cream of Technicolor) that takes a picture with a conspicuous flash of the person eating the soup with each spoonful; a mini magnet on a belt, which turns out to be stronger than KAOS's maxi magnet; and a powerful miniature laser weapon in the button of a sports jacket (the "laser blazer").

Max takes the Chief for a ride

Another of the show's recurring gags is the "Cone of Silence". Smart would often insist on strictly following CONTROL's security protocols; when discussing highly confidential things in the chief's office, he would insist on speaking under the Cone of Silence—two transparent plastic hemispheres which are electrically lowered on top of Max and Chief and are supposed to prevent their conversation from being heard outside. It invariably malfunctions in various ways, making it difficult for the two to communicate. People outside the cone could often hear them better than they could hear themselves. There was also a Portable Cone of Silence.

The series was broadcast on NBC-TV from September 18, 1965, to September 13, 1969, after which it moved to the CBS network for its final season, running from September 26, 1969, to September 11, 1970, with 138 total episodes produced. The series won seven Emmy Awards, and it was nominated for another 14 Emmys and two Golden Globe Awards.

What's In a Name

By Peter W. Pandolfi

This article presents a badge or logo and provides a brief explanation of the item. The information in this article was derived from the book "Car Marques: A Graphic Guide to Automotive Logos and Emblems" by Simon Heptinstall.

For many years, vehicles from the GAZ car company were considered iconic symbols of the old Soviet ear. The combination of imported American designs and technology with simple rugged Russian engineering created a range of sturdy, stately cars loved by party officials and coveted by those who were denied them.

However, GAZ is also a long-term industrial success story. The country's new communist leaders had kick-started an auto industry by importing millions of dollars worth of

GAZ Volga

Ford machinery and know-how to launch a car factory in 1932, originally called NAZ. Govky Avtomobilny Zavod (Gorky Car Factory) immediately began churning out clones of American cars, most often Packards. After World War II, GAZ had gained the confidence to produce

1936 GAZ 4x4 and a new GAZ minivan

its own vehicles, which ranged from luxury cars to trucks. Around this time, an emblem of a leaping stag was introduced as a figure for the hood of the ZIM model. By 1981 the factory had produced its ten millionth vehicle. Moving into the 21st century, GAZ concentrated on its successful truck business and stopped producing its own cars. Instead, foreign models are built under contract, while early GAZ cars have become sought after collector's items.

GAZ prototype convertible

Today, the GAZ badge still features the long-standing symbol of a stag. This is mounted on a chrome bordered shield with red or black background depending on the model. The badge also contains the letters "GAZ" in Cyrillic script.

72nd Annual ODMA MEET

The 72nd Old Dominion Meet Association will be held at the Keystone Truck and Tractor Museum in Colonial Heights, VA with the host hotel (Comfort Suites Southpark) less than a mile away. Onsite trailer parking will be available at the Museum (with notice on your registration).

If you come in Friday, we will be having an informal get together in the host hotel lobby/breakfast area at 7:00 pm. Come spend some time with your fellow AACA members and partake of a tradition started in 1953!

Your car registration will provide you and your passengers with free admission to the Keystone Truck and Tractor Museum, which has an amazing collection of hundreds of tractors as well as unusual trucks and cars too. Plus, they have just recently opened up a new building!

Registration and parking on the show field will be from 8:00 - 10:00 am. Judging will commence shortly thereafter followed by a nice lunch buffet at 1:00 pm followed by the awards ceremony. Vehicles may leave the show field after awards are given out or 5:00 pm, whichever comes first.
